The letter published in our issues of the 2nd and 3rd inst. on the Korean Question, the future problem of the Fur East, is worthy of more than passing consideration. writer is entitled to attention as an intel ligent observer of events and as one who speaks from long experience and persona observation. That he does not take the view most generally accepted by foreign residents in the East may be at once admitted, nor do-we-prétend to endorse all his opinions. We have always regarded it as the duty of China to exercise a wise protection over her northern tributary and to prevent the growth | Ball. there of any distinctly hostile influence. In the past the Peking Government acted selfish and a craven part towards Korea. While enforcing the customary tribute the Chinese Government left the Koreans to flounder as best they might out of the difficulties with foreign nations created by their attacks on matiners ship wrecked on their inhospitable coasts. When at length, owing to the restless but silent activity of Russia along her northern frontier, China woke up to some transpiring on her borders, she thought to reduce her responsibility and minimise her with the Western States. So far, whatever Heuse at 4 o'clock on Thursdays. her motives, the action of China was good neighbour, she has interfered in the affairs yet of Korea in a manner which could be justified only by a political crisis such as has not yet Officers of the 2nd Northamptonshire Regiment, arisen. The Chinese-Minister Yuan seems to have arrogated to himself powers and 10 p.m. The following is the programme:exercised an authority which could never be Polka permitted by even a semi-independent State. Probably he would plead the weakness and fickleness of the Korean Government and the necessity of intervention to prevent snarchy. No doubt, too, the Foreign Representatives are somewhat to blame for not giving a more vigorous support to the Korean Government. And lastly the Koreans are themselves greatcity and an extraordinary tendency to create disorder and subvert authority.

fluence of Confucianism and the retrogressive effect Chinese ascendency has had on the ex-Hermit Nation, and he pleade strongly for the maintenance of the independence of Korea. This is indeed earnestly to be desired on many grounds. The Koreans are a distinct nation with a different language, different dress, customs, and manners, and though it must be confessed bronze figure of the Queen, by Mr. Gilbert, Your Majesty's wise counsels and earnest solicitude trate, and those are detained until such time as that they are not a specially interesting A.R.A., erected as a Jubilee memorial, on Castlepeople, their incorporation, in the millions of the Chinese Empire would be a matter of great regret. The Central Kingdom is already large to unwieldiness, and the policy | We have received the October number of the of its rulers shows little improvement on Chinese Recorder and Missionary Journal. with a deep conviction of the blighting in-

Eastern Asia. Nevertheless there is no reason to suppose that Russia has abandoned her intention to push farther south on the Pacific coast. Some keen observers see in the blustering threats of an advance on Indin more danger to China than India. It is not the wont of Russian statesmen to disclose their hand, and under cover of the flourish of a threat against India, it may well be that a silent advance is meditated on China. Vladivosteck, the supposed fortress by no means impregnable, and no great efforts are being made to render it so, but it is significant that at the present moment vigorous measures are being taken to fortify Possiet, port nearer the Chinese and Korean frontiers. The work is proceeding quietly, and probably no overt demonstration will be made against either China or Korea for years to come, but Russia har always bided bertime, will come some day. Should France and Germany again measure their strength-as seems only too probable—that opportunity S. WATSON & Co., LIMITED. would arise. Great Britain would then practically be the only Power who would be likely to intervene, and it might be neither practicable nor politic on her part to do so. An Angle-Chinese alliance has been talked of, but it does not exist, nor can the idea come within the domain of practical politics while the Chinese Government are so unreliable and wanting in good faith as their latest diplomatic achievement-in the conduct of the negotiations with Portugal - would seem to indicate. It is to be feared the Chinese manduring have learned little and forgotten nothing. While this is the case no civilise'd Power is likely to undertake responsibilities in conjunction with Peking, and the Chinese Government will in all probability be 122 left to meet Russian intrigues on their northern frontier as best they may. That they are on the alert is obvious from their recent action alike in Korea, Manchuria, and Kashgaria, in which latter provinces they have lately greatly strongthened their military forces. For such measures of precaution no one can censure them, nor are we'disposed to dispute their right to exercise a controlling influence in Kores. That control, however, ought to be limited, and should not be exerted in such a manner as to nullify the rights which are expressed in Korea's treaties with foreign states.

The Times about it but still it goes on." To start with the officers dead beat and yet to expect a look-out to be well-kept is surely the height of folly and might easily be avoided. Why could not each captain of a ship be bound to give at least one half of his officers a clear night's rost-3ay off Gravesend? Would the police allow one hausom to pursue its way down Cheapside with the driver asleep? the danger would be nothing like that of a ship in the Channel with all its living freight, and the officers too worn-out to keep their eyes open. Prevention," we are told, "is better than cure." Alas, there is necers when once the collision has taken place. Will not some responsible authority take the matter in hand?

'A Parliamentary paper just published contains a report by Mr. Doring, of the British Embresy, St. Petersburg, on Pauperism in Russia. Peter the Great imposed a penalty on private almsgiving, and had all beggers and vagrants arrested. Various—empresses and princes established institutions for the relief of the poor, and so numerous did these become that the Czar Nicholas instituted a fourth section of the Imperial Chancery to control them, which acted much on the lines of our own Local Government Board. In 1861 the charge of the poor was first legally provided for, the duty being cast on the rural communes. The peasant officials of these are quite incapable of doing for the poor what was done before the abilition of serfdom by the private exertions of the large lauded proprietors. "Since 1866 there has been consequently permanent famine, in some 14 governments." In each of the larger provinces over 160,000 peasants have abundoned the plot of ground granted to them (eight acres) on one pretext or another. The number of beggars in 71 governments was stated to be 300,000, of which 182,000 were peasant proprietors. But this number is below the mark. and the law easting on municipal corporations palsory subdivison of peasants' property, and laziness. An incident bordering on the sensational was witnessed the other day within the grounds of the Newcastle Exhibition. A stranger from the country, who, as it afterwards transpired, had been worshipping at the shrine of Bacchus, was observed to be deeply engrossed in the study of the old Tyne Bridge. Having examined the arches minutely, the man turned on his heel, and thrusting both hands into the pockets of his pantaloons, muttered, "It's only artifishall." the antique arches of the bridge were reflected. the stranger steaded himself, and, gazing intentthat lake is artifishall wottor?"
